Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 02 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cool for some overnight. Warm with sunny spells on Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
A brighter evening, with spells of late sunshine for most. Southern and western areas retaining some clear spells overnight, making for a chilly night. Northern counties generally cloudy overnight, but remaining dry. Possibly windy along the western edge of Dartmoor. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Friday:
Parts of Devon and Gloucestershire may initially be cloudy but elsewhere starting off bright. Staying dry throughout and feeling warm in the afternoon as sunny spells develop for all. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Largely dry with sunny spells on Saturday and Sunday, though a few showers possible each day, mainly in the south. Dry with some sunny spells on Monday. Turning warmer.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.